In this blog, we have listed down a list of best websites and apps that can help you to learn new skills, expand your knowledge and boost your career. There is no excuse for wasting time in school or starting from scratch when there are these websites that will teach you practically anything for free. What are you waiting for? These websites will make everything easier. So why not take the plunge today? A blog post detailing how to overcome writer's block was written by Ryan Kastin on the iapparticles iapparticles iapparticles iapparticles iapparticles iapparticles iapparticle s website. The world is moving towards a paperless office these days. However, you still need to write on the go, on the move or offline. If you run into this issue often then you should read this article where we have listed down the best apps that will help writers out there to overcome this issue. As per wiki.answers.com, ""website"" is a collection of related web pages, including multimedia content, typically identified with a common domain name, and published on at least one web server.. As far as writing is concerned it can be anything -- correspondence, reports of various kinds, lab reports etc. There are a lot of people who prefer writing with a pen and paper and the trend of writing on paper is not going to die anytime soon. The reason being, they feel it is easier for them to write on paper than using a computer's keyboard. But there are others who love computers so much that they don't mind the pain of typing the whole word. In this case, if you have your documents saved electronically in Microsoft Office format then you can do everything online, sharing files with others over the internet, editing them with others without any hassles and printing it out at your convenience. But for this to happen, your computer needs to be connected to the internet at all times. But what if you aren't online and you want to write something on the go? You can do that by storing your files in a USB drive or memory card and write using a device such as iPad, iPhone etc. However, you need to convert your files into a format that is compatible with these devices and the only way you can do that is by using software's such as Microsoft Word or OpenOffice etc. As per wiki.answers.com, ""a mobile app (short: app) is an application specifically designed for mobile devices such as smartphones and tablet computers. Apps run on the device, rather than on a computer. Mobile apps can be pre-installed with the device at the time of purchase or downloaded from an application store.. There are many popular mobile app stores such as Google Play Store and Apple App Store where you can download and install mobile apps. As per wiki.answers.com, ""application software"" is a category of software that covers programs designed for use on desktop and laptop computers or mobile devices such as smartphones and tablet computers. Application software is usually divided into two large categories: system software and applications.. The world is becoming so technologically advanced today that we can do almost everything right from our mobile phones rather than using our laptops or PCs.
